DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SCIENCES

Faculty Evaluation System of Tenured and Tenure-Track Faculty in the Department of Human Sciences

FES_HUSC

TEACHING (FES 1 and 2):

Teaching evaluation criteria consist of the following:

1. Chair Evaluation (FES 1)
 - a. Chair and Peer Review of Teaching
 - b. IDEA response rate
 - c. Administrative (holds class in accordance with scheduled class times/days and academic calendar, compliance with HB 2504, updated CV, complete and accurate course syllabi in compliance with minimum requirement in the faculty handbook, regularly holds office hours, attending dept meetings, maintains compliance with policies pertaining to teaching duties)
2. Student Rating of Teaching Effectiveness (FES 2)

Chair Evaluation of Faculty Teaching Effectiveness (FES 1)

Chair Evaluation:

Chair makes use of written comments from IDEA, type of assignments, type of exams, number of instructor preps, instructor's timely feedback on assignments/exams, number of students, student's verbal or written comments, maintaining of academic dishonesty policy, and overall academic rigor. Annual peer and chair review of teaching, IDEA response rates, and completion of administrative duties as part of factor into the overall averaged FES 1 score.

Additional criteria are considered to adjust the faculty member's FES 1 score, increase or decrease as applicable based on one or more of the following:

- New course development
- Minor course revision
- Academic Community Engagement (ACE course)

- Graduate student achievements
- Undergraduate student achievements
- Uncompensated overloads
- Teaching awards
- Teaching professional development
- Teaching conference presentations
- Teaching conference attendance
- Honor Contracts

FES 1 – Chairs Evaluation of Faculty Teaching Effectiveness:
5.0	Extraordinary. Rare. Reserved for extraordinary achievement or recognition.
4.5	Exceptional. Maintains very high standards for students and themselves. Outstanding innovation/motivation in the classroom promoting student success. Substantial evidence of teaching effectiveness.
4.0	Very good. Maintains high standards for students and themselves. Innovative in the classroom.
3.5	Engaging. Motivates students.
3.0	Good. Accessible to students; generally well-regarded.
2.5	Average. Above minimum expectations; acceptable; normal.
2.0	Meets All Minimum Expectations.
1.5	Needs Improvement. Below expectations, or ineffective teacher.
1.0	Substandard. Lowest score possible. Needs substantial, immediate improvement.

Student Rating of Teaching Effectiveness (FES 2):

The IDEA summary evaluation of teaching effectiveness scores are based on three areas: (1) summary, (2) progress on relevant objectives and (3) ratings of summative questions. The Department of Human Sciences uses the converted average summary score for reporting in FES 2.

RESEARCH (FES 3):

The productive scholar is continuously involved in research, writing, and creative effort that advances knowledge in their field. This includes activities such as research, the integration of knowledge, the dissemination of knowledge, the transformation of knowledge through intellectual work, and/or the application of research to solve a compelling problem in the community.

The quality of productive scholarship refers to the magnitude and impact of the work on the scholarly community and/or practitioners. It should not be evaluated only based on the quantity of the work. The magnitude and impact of the work will be examined holistically, and it can be shown through a multitude of methods. No specific number of publications or pages of publications will satisfy the criterion. Instead, the quality of the research and the candidate's total research accomplishment should provide evidence of significant contributions to the literature in the relevant field or fields. Increasingly, research, scholarship, or creative activity involves collaboration. The quality of a scholar's work is based on the significance of the contribution, whether it is individual or collaborative.

Quality should be defined as:

Published works - A scholar is expected to publish manuscripts within quality peer-reviewed journals. In addition, a distinction may be supported through publications in various other scholarly outlets. The quality, impact factor, and stature of peer-reviewed journals and other scholarly outlets indicate distinction.

- Articles in peer-reviewed periodicals
- Books
- Book chapters
- Monographs and technical reports
- Abstracts for research publications including poster presentations at conferences
- Articles in non-refereed publications
- Book reviews for peer-reviewed journals or periodicals

Grant activity - A faculty member is expected to pursue research, development, and/or training grants, which may reflect activity at different stages (e.g., pending, funded, and unfunded). This expectation may vary as a function of the availability of funding sources. The quality, stature, and competitiveness of grants are significant indicators of distinction.

- Grant proposals funded as PI or Co-PI or investigator
- Grant participation as an expert (non-PI status)
- Grant proposals submitted as PI or Co-PI or investigator

Research presentations – Presentations at regional, national and international conferences illustrate how the faculty member actively participates in and contributes to the research community and other related audiences. These presentations should thus increase a faculty member's visibility in the broader community and contribute to his/her research agenda.

- Peer-reviewed papers and presentations at regional, national and international conferences
- Invited presentations at national and international conferences
- Peer-reviewed papers and presentations at state and regional conferences

Awards and Honors –

- Recognition as a leading scholar by a professional association (Associate to Full)
- Recognition as a promising scholar by a professional association (Assistant to Associate)
- Institutional, state, national, and international awards for scholarly work

- Research fellowships in support of a faculty member's work

Other related scholarship activities –

- Creative works or activities, surveys or instrumentations, patents and copyrights
- Intervention programs prevent, ameliorate, or remediate persistent negative outcomes or optimize positive outcomes for individuals or groups
- Documented contributions to public policy at the local, state, national, or international levels (for example, written testimony and policy briefs)
- Documented research contributions to the university, college or department with impact on decision-making, policy, or program planning

Engaged Practice –

- Contributions to the industry or field of study through consultation, research, or original creative work
- Connection to current best practices through direct interaction with industry or field of study

FES 3 - Research
5.0	Exceptional. For high achievements, publications, and/or recognition.
4.5	Outstanding. The candidate has made substantial, sustained contributions in at least two or more topic areas of research as defined above. The quality and quantity of research reflect a coherent agenda in at least one topic area.
4.0	Excellent. The candidate has made significant, sustained contributions in at least two or more topic areas of research as defined above. The quality and quantity of research reflect a coherent agenda in at least one topic area.
3.5	Very Good. The candidate has made sustained contributions in at least two or more topic areas of research as defined above. The quality and quantity of research reflect a coherent agenda in at least one topic area.
3.0	Good. The candidate has made acceptable, sustained contributions in two or more topic areas of research as defined above. The quality and quantity of research reflect a coherent agenda of work and suggests that significant contributions will be made over time.
2.5	Satisfactory. The candidate has made sustained contributions in one or more topic areas of research as defined above. The quality and quantity of research reflect a coherent agenda of work and suggest that contributions will be made over time.
2.0	Progressing. Meets minimum expectations of at least one research product from categories listed above.
1.5	Unsatisfactory. Inconsistent or minimal evidence. The candidate has made insufficient contributions to research/creative activity as defined above.

1.0	No evidence of research activity.
